SUBJECT: Study Abroad Programs

The purpose of this document is to provide fiscal guidance to support instruction that includes a study abroad program component. CSU Executive Order No. 1081, Study Abroad and Exchange Programs, defines a campus based study abroad program as follows:

- A campus program that is CSU credit bearing.
- Conducted whole or in part outside the United States.
- Primarily intended for CSU matriculated students.
- Not a degree program, but can be part of a degree program.
- Normally one year or less in duration.

Each study abroad program, whether credit bearing or non-credit bearing, should be supported by a detailed budget (i.e. spending plan) which estimates the total program cost (academic and non-academic). In general, academic program-related costs such as lab fees and other expenses related to a course may be covered by the state operating fund. The program budget should clearly identify the costs covered by University as well as the cost required of the student(s). The CSUF Study Abroad Office can assist in the development of program budgets. The program budget should be approved by an appropriate department/college administrator. Following that approval, the full program budget and details related to any funding sources, should be submitted to the central CSUF Study Abroad Office. Program budgets and funding sources will then be reviewed by the budget office of Extension and International Programs. This budget review process should precede submission of any related study abroad provider contracts.

Although it may vary depending on the specific study abroad program and its respective budget, examples of non-academic study abroad costs that may be required of the student(s) include:

- Lodging in host location(s) for dates of the program
- Tours/excursions
- Entrance fees for program-related activities and visits
- Airport transfers upon arrival/departure in host location(s)
- On-the ground support services
- Guest lectures
- Use of academic facilities in host location
- Meals
- Incidents
Departments can use their discretionary funding sources to provide financial assistance to offset student study abroad costs in accordance with statutory, regulatory and policy restrictions. Please refer to the matrix below titled “Allowable Fund Sources for Student Study Abroad Costs” for further details.
